More about Satin Black Domina CBD

Satin Black Domina CBD starts from Black Domina and combines it with a CBD-rich genetic, hence its 2:1 THC:CBD ratio. If you want to buy feminised cannabis seeds from Sensi Seeds with a milder profile and a very generous yield, this CBD variety is an interesting alternative.

The effect is pleasantly relaxing, with a slight cerebral, creative lift that is not overwhelming. It is a gentle high that lets you stay calm without losing clarity. It is an option for anyone looking for a milder profile than varieties with very dominant THC, always with responsible use.

Appearance of the flower. Buds with an Indica structure and an aroma ranging from spicy to fruity, with a hint of hashish. On the palate, it is reminiscent of earth and blackberries, with an Afghan-style undertone.

Plant Morphology. Medium-sized plant that doesn't take up much space, both indoors and outdoors. It keeps a tidy structure and an abundant harvest. Its cycle and tidy structure make it easy to manage, even for those new to growing.

Frequently Asked Questions

What are the ideal growing conditions for Satin Black Domina CBD?
It grows well in mild and continental climates. Outdoors, a normal warm summer is enough for it to ripen.

Which training techniques work best with Satin Black Domina CBD?
It responds well to LST and topping, which open up the plant and improve light penetration. It does not require complex techniques. Gentle, consistent training is enough to maximise its potential.

What sort of fertiliser does Satin Black Domina CBD need?
Use a balanced fertiliser and don't overfeed it. A good supply of potassium in flowering helps form dense buds.

What should watering and humidity be like for Satin Black Domina CBD?
Water when the substrate dries out and keep humidity moderate. In flowering, constant ventilation is advisable.

Does the Satin Black Domina CBD plant need pruning?
A light pruning of the lower leaves is enough. It's best not to trim too much, so you don't reduce the yield.
